INCREASES THE MOTOR FEES

Campbell Russell Files 12-A and Another Initiative Act—No Compensation Law Repeal.

Special to The World.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 28.—Within less than an hour of the dead line petitioners asking a referendum on house bill No. 509, enacted by the seventh legislature, which increases the rate of motor license fees, filed petitions representing 10,618 signatures. The petitions were delivered at the secretary of state's office at 4:45 o'clock Friday afternoon. The time within which, filings for the referendum of enacted legislation would have expired at the close of business at 5 p.m., Friday, which marked the expiration of 30 days after the adjournment of the legislative session, March 29.

The initiative and referendum law requires that notice of the filing of petitions be published in a newspaper, after which opponents to repealing the legislation have five days in which to file a protest.

Campbell Russell, corporation commissioner, filed two sets of petitions, one of which refers to the celebrated 12-A amendment, providing for divisions of public school money received from public service corporation taxation to all school districts alike, instead of on a basis of the amount of corporation property owned in each district. The other initiates a licensing new qualifications to those already established for holding public offices in the state. This law, if enacted, would require all elective and appointive officers of the state and its various subdivisions to state in their oaths of office that they have not gambled or been intoxicated during a period of twelve months prior to their induction into office. It also provides that members of the state corporation commission and chief oil and gas conservation officer shall not engage directly or indirectly in the oil business either as an operator or leaseholder.

It has been reported that petitions were in circulation to refer the workmen's compensation law, but no filing was offered and the measure becomes effective July 1. Rumors were in circulation yesterday that evidences of fraud had been alleged in connection with the circulation of petitions relating to this statute and that officers of the State Federation of Labor would file protest against the attempted referendum.

House bills passed on the benefit law were offered for filing some time ago, but Secretary of State Morris held that the legislation was the ratification of an act of congress and not subject to referendum. This question will be placed before the state supreme court some time during the summer.

Democrat Reporters Tell Too Much in Presence of Mayor

"Just wait till you see the front page story we are going to print tomorrow."

"Yes, it is going to be some story," a party of Tulsa Democratic employees were refreshingly themselves in a First street cold drink stand Saturday night. Some of them had apparently had too much "refreshments" already, for they were discussing with carelessness indiscretions the contents of their Sunday edition.

"All about the mayor," they continued over their glasses, "and how he is going to try to force 600 laboring men to ride the street cars to their work by prohibiting the drivers from traveling over the West Tulsa bridge."

"That's it. And when waited on by a committee of union men at 6 o'clock this evening, the mayor tried to pass the buck on Sheriff Woolley by telling them that the bridge belonged to the county and that would have been his. Mayor Hubbard himself had standing near him. The mayor did not know whether the conversation had been meant for his ears or not, and he cared less. He quickly stopped in front of Page's reporters and said: "That story is a damn lie."

When interviewed on the subject at 11:45 last night the mayor denied every word of the tale as false.

The fixtures and furnishings for the new store have already arrived and when these are placed and the different departments stocked, Tulsa will have a food store of which the entire city may feel proud.

Mr. King says the same old store slogan, made famous through his advertising, will be equally true of the new one, namely—if it comes from King's it's good to eat.
